DETAILED ACTION

Priority

Applicant's claim for domestic priority under 35 U.S.C. 119(e) is acknowledged. However, the provisional application upon which priority is claimed fails to provide adequate support under 35 U.S.C. 112 for claims 1-28 of this application.

Objection

Claims 1- 28 are objected to because the abbreviations "A/R," for example are not defined within the claim language. Likewise "SP/V".

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 1-28 are rejected under 112 2nd the phrase "and/or" renders the claim indefinite because it is unclear whether applicant need to specify if the intention is to include the limitation or alternate.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

Art Unit: 2171

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

Claims 1- 7 are rejected under 102(a) as being anticipated by Harrington (US Patent No. 5,895,454).

1. Regarding Claim 1, Harrington discloses an asset tracking, managing and servicing system, comprising:

a user-referenced subsystem including, for each a plurality of users, a respective A/R DB and further including a records associator and a request processor, the A/R DB comprising user based assets and/or relationships (A/R) data records (see Fig. 2, step 34, Harrington);

a plurality of service/product, vendor-referenced, databases comprising SP/V data records that relate to corresponding user A/R data records, the SP/V data records comprising service and product information (see Fig. 2, step 32, Harrington); and a C/C (control/communication) subsystem that enables interactions between the A/R data records that are user referenced and the SP/V data records that are vendor-referenced in a manner that creates current user information (see Fig. 2, step 36, Harrington).

2. Regarding Claim 2, Harrington discloses a system further including a facility associated with the user-referenced subsystem which groups selected items from the A/R data records into groups of records (see column 5, lines 35-37, Harrington).

3. Regarding Claim 3, Harrington discloses a system in which the A/R data records include asset-related information (see column 4, lines 39-42, Harrington).

Art Unit: 2171

4. Regarding claim 4, Harrington discloses a system in which the asset-related information is comprised of one or more data items selected from an information data group consisting of: warranties; periodic maintenance; payment schedules; payment history; proof of ownership of assets; proof of purchase; product recall data; tax related information; installment payment dates; expiration dates; renewal dates; expenditure history; and next mandated maintenance date (see column 4, lines 46-50, Harrington).

5. Regarding Claims 5, and 6, Harrington discloses a system in which the asset-related information is comprised of one or more data items selected from an information data group consisting of:

time and date of transactions; vendor; personal data of purchaser; addressing information of recipient; personal demographic information about purchaser and/or recipient; generic description of an asset; contract terms and conditions; entity purchased from; and contact information; and the data items also include transaction type information including: purchase, rental, lease, and contract signing (see column 4, lines 35-65, column 5, lines 1-46, Harrington).

6. Regarding Claim 7, Harrington discloses a system in which the user-referenced subsystem further includes a security controller (see column 5, lines 52-55, Harrington).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 2171

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 8-28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Harrington (US Patent No. 5,895,454) in view of Barlow et al (US Patent No 6,038,551).

7. Regarding Claims 8, and 9, Harrington discloses all the claimed subject matter as discussed above, except he does not explicitly disclose a system in which the security controller is operable to set a variety of authorization levels that determine and select those A/R data records to which the request processor shall have access in which the authorization levels are based on criteria selected from a criteria group that consists of: a user ID; a requestor PIN; type of access rights granted; data that pertains to assets associated with a requestor; transaction code; A/R data record category; and vendor class. However, Barlow discloses the security controller is operable to set a variety of authorization levels that determine and select those A/R data records to which the request processor shall have access in which the authorization levels are based on criteria selected from a criteria group that consists of: a user ID; a requestor PIN; type of access rights granted; data that pertains to assets associated with a requestor; transaction code; A/R data record category; and vendor class (see Fig 3, steps 74, 76, 68, 80, Barlow). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify the Harrington system by assigning a user ID and password to the users with the motivation of controlling the users accessing the system and monitoring the activity for each user in order to enhance the type of services provided.

Art Unit: 2171

8. Regarding Claim 10, the combination of Harrington/ Barlow discloses a system in which the A/R data records are encrypted (see Fig. 9, step 186, Barlow).
9. Regarding Claim 11, the combination of Harrington/ Barlow discloses the A/R data records including personal preference information (see column 5, lines 48-51, Harrington).
10. Regarding Claim 12, the combination of Harrington/ Barlow discloses a system in which the security controller enables communication via a trusted agent (see column 12, lines 15-25, Barlow).
11. Regarding Claim 13, the combination of Harrington/ Barlow discloses a system in which the request processor includes a facility that enables the user-referenced subsystem to respond to unsolicited requests for detailed information about assets (see Fig. 3, step 80, Barlow).
12. Regarding Claim 14, the combination of Harrington/ Barlow discloses a system in which the request processor receives a request for information from remote computing facilities (see column 16, lines 15-20, Barlow).
13. Regarding Claim 15, the combination of Harrington/ Barlow discloses a system in which the request processor assigns a unique transaction number to each request (see column 11, lines 63-63, Barlow).
14. Regarding Claim 16, the combination of Harrington/ Barlow discloses a system in which the request processor develops a history of transactions (see column 12, lines 15-23, Barlow).
15. Regarding Claim 17, the combination of Harrington/ Barlow discloses a system in which the records associator is a facility that automatically establishes associations between A/R records of various types, based on a set of criteria (see column 4, lines 12-22, Harrington).

16. Regarding Claim 18, the combination of Harrington/ Barlow discloses a system in which the records associator tentatively establishes associations at the time a transaction is made (see column 4, lines 46-50, Harrington).

17. Regarding Claim 19, the combination of Harrington/ Barlow discloses a system including an inference engine and in which the criteria for the records associator are developed by the inference engine which is a software component of the records associator that analyzes consumers transactions as they occur, to derive likely associations (see column 4, lines 35-31, Harrington).

18. Regarding Claim 20, the combination of Harrington/ Barlow discloses a system further including a user rule facility which is referenced by the records associator to develop rules of association (see column 4, lines 39-42, Harrington).

19. Regarding Claim 21, the combination of Harrington/ Barlow discloses a system further including an editor/viewer in the user-referenced subsystem through which users access the A/R data records for the purposes of editing and viewing the same (see Fig. 4, Barlow).

20. Regarding Claims 22, and 23, the combination of Harrington/ Barlow discloses a system further comprising an individual best coordinator (IBC), which is a process that provides decision support to a user based on a current transaction and current assets in the user's A/R DB (see column 12, lines 12-16, Harrington).

21. Regarding Claim 24, the combination of Harrington/ Barlow discloses a system in which the user-referenced subsystem comprises a computer/software construct that is resident on a user's PC (see Fig. 2, steps 27, and 28, Harrington).

Art Unit: 2171

22. Regarding Claim 25, the combination of Harrington/ Barlow discloses a system in which the user-referenced subsystem comprises a computer/software construct that is resident on the Internet (see column 2, lines 36-40, Harrington).

23. Regarding Claim 26, 27, and 28, the combination of Harrington/ Barlow discloses a system in which the user-referenced subsystem comprises a computer/software construct that is resident on a private database located outside of the user's individual PC (see Fig. 1, step 10, 11, and 13, Harrington).
